The Good Farm is expected to provide 48North with 40,000 kilograms of dried cannabis at a low-cost margin. Low-cost, high-quality cannabis will be critical in the development of next-generation cannabis products like vape cartridges.”

“Great partnerships are built on shared values. 48North’s consistent focus on strong corporate values and producing premium cannabis products from sustainably and responsibly grown cannabis make this partnership a natural fit. 48North’s organically sun-grown cannabis from The Good Farm will be the best extraction material available in the market. We are excited to bring our experience in extraction technology and techniques to produce exceptional products for adult-use consumers in Canada and beyond,” said Adam Smith, CEO and Co-Founder of Arbor Pacific Inc.

Under the terms of the licensing agreement signed March 6, 2019, 48North will license Avitas' intellectual property and manufacturing techniques for domestic consumption in Canada, and for global export from Canada.
